With smart planning, you can accommodate family legal situations, creditor proof your assets and minimize your farm's and your family's total tax payable during your lifetime and at death. Estate planning requires an investment of your time and some money, but the return on your investment may be huge. Of the 193,492 farms counted in 2018, only 16,200, or just over eight per cent, reported having a succession plan according to Statistics Canada.

Planning ahead will help you:

- Reduce taxes paid
- Assist with property or land sales
- Avoid OAS claw backs
- Use OAS and CPP incomes strategically
